Welcome to Kansas City!

We’re delighted to welcome you to the third biennial Council on Foundations Rural Philanthropy Conference, Innovate, Implement, and Impact. The future of rural philanthropy is ripe with new opportunities despite scarce resources. This conference was specifically designed with the future in mind, and we hope you leave with new ideas and strategies.

The planning committee created three thematic tracks, each with its own lineup of experts to share innovative strategies. Each track is structured to share and help you learn about successful best practices and equip you with tools to replicate them in your own region. Choose your track and join your colleagues for some stimulating conversations.

Effusive thanks go to our host, the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation, for opening Kansas City to our conference. You don’t want to miss our evening of networking at Kauffman Stadium, home to the Kansas City Royals, or that famous Kansas City barbecue. And be sure to take advantage of the free time to explore the city.

One last thing: Please fill out the evaluation forms for the conference. You can find these at the registration desk and in each of the breakout rooms during the concurrent sessions. Your comments help us plan future conferences.

Thank you for joining us, and we hope you enjoy your time together!

12:30 p.m.  Opening Luncheon Plenary
Demographics in Rural America
Colonial Ballroom

Robert Groves,
Director, U.S. Census Bureau

Mil Duncan,
Research Director, AGree

It's no secret that rural demographics are changing. Population shifts and evolving economics are just a few of the challenges rural funders face as they seek to serve their communities effectively. Join a discussion about the latest demographic trends and how to successfully navigate them in your community.

The opening plenary session is sponsored by The Annie E. Casey Foundation.

Concurrent Sessions

Choose one track to follow throughout the conference.

Track One: Creating and Capturing Philanthropic Resources in Rural Communities

This track features strategies and programs for rural funders seeking to identify and build philanthropic resources. Sessions explore ways to raise awareness of philanthropic investment, capture and retain wealth within rural communities, and create long-term investment strategies for future sustainability and growth.

Track Two: Public Policy’s Role in Rural America’s Future

This track addresses how public policies affect rural areas and strategies for developing successful advocacy campaigns. Sessions look at the keys to effective advocacy and tools you can use to establish partnerships with government agencies.

Track Three: Philanthropy’s Role in Building a New Rural Economy

This track uses case studies to focus on successful strategies for building sustainable economic growth in rural areas. Sessions address the concept of regionalism and examine best practices you can use in your own community.

3 p.m.  Concurrent Sessions: Round One

Track One: Identifying Community Assets

Truman A Room

This session provides an introduction to the Rural Development Philanthropy framework, a community-led approach that creates locally controlled assets and invests them to strengthen rural areas. You’ll look at a range of philanthropic assets and discuss successful ways of growing them.

Janet Topolsky, Community Strategies Group, Aspen Institute; Peter Pennekamp, Humboldt Area Foundation; Sherry Ristau, Southwest Initiative Foundation; Racheal Stuart, New Hampshire Charitable Foundation; Nancy Van Milligen, Community Foundation of Greater Dubuque; Jeff Yost, Nebraska Community Foundation
Track Two: The Importance of Successful Advocacy Campaigns

Roosevelt Room

How do you build momentum to affect public policy and educate policymakers? Leaders from the Center for Lobbying in the Public Interest and the Alliance for Justice will provide a tutorial on effective advocacy roles and the components of successful advocacy campaigns.

Abby Levine, legal director of advocacy programs, Alliance for Justice

Erin Skene-Pratt, consultant, Skene-Pratt Consulting

Track Three: An Orientation on Economic Regionalism

Truman B Room

Rural areas have embraced various forms of economic regionalism for decades. You’ll learn the basic components of regionalism, discover how funders have employed the concept, and examine case studies.

Brian Dabson, vice president and COO, RUPRI, and director, Rural Futures Lab

4:30 p.m. Break

Foyer Outside Colonial Ballroom

6 p.m. Networking Event: An Up-Close Look at America’s Pastime

Through the gracious hospitality of the Greater Kansas City Community Foundation, join us for an evening at Kauffman Stadium—home of the Kansas City Royals. Tour the infield and visitor’s dugout while enjoying world-famous Kansas City barbecue. Don’t miss this terrific opportunity to network in one of America’s most beautiful ballparks.

8:30 a.m.  Morning Plenary
Keeping the Transfer of Wealth at Home in Rural America
Colonial Ballroom

In an era of severe budget cuts and government gridlock, rural communities face significant financial challenges. At the same time, studies have found many rural communities harbor tremendous wealth. Hear from rural leaders who are not only sustaining this wealth but using it to improve their communities. You’ll leave this plenary session with ideas for taking advantage of wealth transfer in your own community.

Don Macke, director of strategic engagement, Center for Rural Entrepreneurship
Bob Sutton, president, South Dakota Community Foundation
Jeff Pickering, president and CEO, Kern Community Foundation
Donnell Mersereau, vice president, community foundations, Council of Michigan Foundations
Jeff Yost, president and CEO, Nebraska Community Foundation
Steve Gunderson, president and CEO, Council on Foundations

9:45 a.m.  Break
Foyer Outside Colonial Ballroom

10 a.m.  Concurrent Sessions: Round Two

Track One: The Keys to Building Financial Assets
Truman A Room
Review the different types of philanthropic assets in rural communities, then learn how to build and capture them. Come prepared to share stories from your region with other attendees. (See track designers on page 2.)

Track Two: Raising Awareness of Community Issues Through Advocacy
Roosevelt Room
Community engagement and education is critical to build awareness and develop successful advocacy campaigns. Hear from individuals leading this work as they share their stories and answer questions to help you develop a plan for your own campaign.

Gary Stangler, executive director, Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative
Dianna Walters, associate, Jim Casey Youth Opportunities Initiative
Lavina Grandon, policy and education director, Rural Community Alliance
Track Three: Economic Regionalism in Action
Truman B Room

Hear an in-depth analysis of ways economic regionalism has worked in various parts of the country and see how rural leaders have sustained regional rural economies.

Neil Cuthbert, vice president of programs, The McKnight Foundation
Joe Black, president, Southern Bancorp Capital Markets
Nancy Straw, president, West Central Initiative

11:30 a.m.
Break
Foyer Outside Colonial Ballroom

Noon
Luncheon Plenary
A Conversation With Henry Bloch and Tom Bloch
Colonial Ballroom

Originally from the Kansas City area, the Bloch family has been instrumental in the success of many of the region’s major initiatives. In 1955, Henry and his brother Richard founded H&R Block, which today is the largest commercial tax-preparation firm in the world. Henry’s son, Tom, was the company’s CEO before resigning in 1995 to become a math teacher and the cofounder of University Academy, an urban college-preparatory charter school. Join us to hear Henry and Tom’s personal philanthropic stories firsthand.

1:30 p.m.
Foyer Outside Colonial Ballroom
2 p.m.  Concurrent Sessions: Round Three

Track One: Leave No Resource Uncovered
Truman A Room
Financial resources are important, but they can’t always solve a problem. Funders and leaders can use other assets to build and sustain long-term community viability.
(See track designers on page 2.)

Track Two: Successful Public-Philanthropic Partnerships
Roosevelt Room
Public-philanthropic partnerships have enjoyed great success, but navigating the complexities of these partnerships can stop a project before it even starts. You’ll examine two case studies featuring thriving partnerships to learn the keys to working with federal agencies.
Nancy Van Milligen, president and CEO, Community Foundation of Greater Dubuque
Shelley Poticha, director, Office of Sustainable Housing and Communities, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development
Doug O’Brien, senior adviser to the secretary, U.S. Department of Agriculture

Track Three: Regional Economic Development: Keys for Success
Truman B Room
Access to capital and higher education are two key components for success. Hear about ways to implement programs that spur development.
Jim Applegate, vice president for program development, Lumina Foundation for Education
Bradley Clark, president, Surmount Partners
Christopher Coro, deputy director of adult education and literacy, U.S. Department of Education
Margaret Doughty, founder, Literacy Powerline

4:15 p.m.  Discussion Roundtables
Colonial Ballroom
Join representatives from federal agencies and foundation leaders for a discussion about government grant programs and legislation affecting rural philanthropy. Funders will have an opportunity to share their insights to ensure that rural communities are fully represented in guidelines for agency grants and other government funding programs.
Wednesday, July 27

8:30 a.m.  Morning Plenary  **
A Look Back: The National Rural Funders Collaborative  **
Colonial Ballroom  **

For the past 10 years, the National Rural Funders Collaborative has expanded resources for families and communities in regions of persistent poverty—especially where concentrations of poverty and communities of color overlap. Hear about the successes and lessons learned from the funders’ and grantees’ perspectives.

Jim Richardson, executive director, National Rural Funders Collaborative

10 a.m.  Break  **
Foyer Outside Colonial Ballroom  **

10:30 a.m.  Closing Plenary  **
Defining Philanthropy’s Role in Society  **
Colonial Ballroom  **

Tom Vilsack,
U.S. Secretary of Agriculture  **

Public policy’s impact in rural communities is significant. However, a growing budget deficit has caused harmful funding cuts to rural programs. U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Tom Vilsack will discuss the federal government’s plans for engaging rural America in this time of dwindling resources and provide insight about the White House Rural Council.

(Lunch will be provided at the end of the session.)

Noon  Conference Adjourns  **
